DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The amendment filed August 15, 2005 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132(a) because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132(a) states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material which is not supported by the original disclosure is as follows: The addition in the claims of the cathode being made of a second metal and that the groove has a surface made of a second metal is being instantly claimed in claims 17 and 18, however, no support for this addition can be found in applicant's specification as set forth.

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 17-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The specification as set forth does not describe that a second metal may be used for the cathode or that the groove has a surface of a second metal for being deposited upon.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 17 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 17 and 18 are vague and indefinite with respect to the second metal. It is unclear as to whether the previous metal was replaced, or if this second metal is used in addition to the original metal as a coating from the instant claims as set forth.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 1-14, 19, 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by GB 1427348).

The GB patent discloses a titanium cathode plate onto which copper is deposited on to the surfaces of the plate. The deposited copper adheres to the whole of the immersed surface of the cathode plate. In order to separate the copper sheets from the cathode plate, at least one side edge and preferable both side edges are coated with a plastic or elastomeric masking material. The bottom edge of the cathode plate is left uncoated and provided with a V-shaped longitudinal groove to assist in effecting separation of the copper deposits. See Page 2, lines 8-19.

The prior art of GB 1427348 anticipates the applicants instant invention as set forth above with respect to the disclosure shown and further with respect to applicant's instant claims.

The GB document does not specifically state the angles of the V groove, however, the groove present in a starter plate is restricted by the thickness of the starter plate which is not normally very thick and therefore, would inherently have these dimensions due to the thickness restriction of the cathode plate thickness. Further, since the groove is made of the same material as the cathode plate, the copper will inherently flow into the groove and will further inherently have the line of weakness or frangible portion as set forth in the instant claims. The groove in the GB patent further will also inherently allow gas to be captured that rises from below the cathode plate due to the same design as that inherently claimed in applicant's instant claims being used. Therefore, the prior art of GB 1427348 anticipates the instant claims as set forth.
